

Safety through commitment

CBC Mechanical Electrical is committed to the health, safety and welfare of our employees and others that may be affected by our work. This includes the protection of our employees by complying with OHS legislation, demonstrating due diligence and the application of industry-based OHS procedures. Safety will always take precedence over job expediency.

Managers and supervisors have the responsibility for implementing this Policy as an integral part of their accountabilities; they may delegate their OHS duties and activities, but not their responsibilities.
